

GERMAN FARMERS REJECT MARKS FOR PRODUCE; RATHER TAKE JEWELS AND HOUSEHOLD GOODS

(BY CARL D. GROOT)
(United Press Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1923, By The United Press)
BERLIN, July 25.—(By the United Press)—The continued fall of the mark not only in exchange value but in domestic purchasing is rapidly bringing Germany to the point of old-fashioned bartering in kind.
A strong tendency is developing among farmers to refuse to accept payment in marks for produce.
The farmer looks with more favor on pieces of jewelry or household furniture in return for a bag of onions than upon a fist full of paper marks.
With marks at 571,430 to the dollar, the effect is beginning to show not only economically but politically.
The skeletons of metal unions just held, resulted in overwhelming communist victories throughout Germany.
The radical leaders in the metal unions were swept into complete control.
Food prices are getting to the point where workmen are unable to make purchases.
Food prices not only follow but surpass the dollar, while wages are regulated only twice a month to keep pace with descending marks.
Failure to accomplish any degree of stabilizing the money value is resulting in great disturbance among workers.
This is being reflected in the turn to the more radical element.
The Socialists are announcing that a strong attack will be made on the government, the moment the reichstag reconvenes.

Held For Threatening Lives Of Movie Stars

MARTINEZ, CALIF., July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Albert Sans, alleged author of threatening letters to Mabel Normand, film actress and to Mack Sennett, motion picture producer, was held today pending a hearing to determine his mental condition.
Police declare Sans is evidently obsessed with an hallucination that he is responsible for the death of William Desmond Taylor, screen director slain in Los Angeles in 1922.
The mislives to Miss Normand were nearly incoherent, but the text of some indicated that Sans entertained an idea he was engaged to wed the actress.
In spite of the similarity between the names of Sans and that of Edward Sans, valet, who was sought in connection with the killing of Taylor, authorities scouted the theory that the men are related.
For more than a year Sans has worked as a section hand for the Southern Pacific Company. In his rooms, police said, were found many unmailed letters addressed to Miss Normand and Mr. Sennett.

Eleven Jurors Selected

CLEVELAND, O., July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Predictions that the jury which will sit in the trial of John L. Whitfield, under indictment for first degree murder, will be completed before nightfall, were truly made around the court house when court opened today. Whitfield is charged with the murder of Patrolman Dennis Griffin.
Eleven tentative jurors had been selected. The attorneys for the defense had exercised two of their sixteen peremptory challenges and the state one of its four. It was not believed, however, that either side will use all their challenges.
Marie Price, 14-year-old companion of Whitfield in his flight through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, and Dewey Biggs, proprietor of a Chicago garage, have been subpoenaed as witnesses. A fourth witness, also has been subpoenaed for Mrs. Mary Whitfield, wife of the defendant, who is said to have left the city.

Miller formerly lived in West Virginia. The jury recommended mercy. Sentence will be passed tomorrow.

Daugherty To Open Fight On The Boycott Of Labor

CHICAGO, July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Enroute today to the Pacific coast to join President Harding, United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty intends to appear personally in criminal actions against San Francisco building material dealers and trade associations charged with conspiracy to boycott union labor by refusing to furnish materials to contractors employing organized workers. Conferences with interested organization leaders over the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific separation, decision of the federal circuit court also will occupy a large part of Mr. Daugherty's time in California.
The attorney general declined to reveal the names of those against which court action might be taken in San Francisco when he announced his plans before leaving here last night. He said he had once advised a circle and trade associations from San Francisco that a "boycott against labor is as indefensible as a boycott against industry and he now stood ready to test that position in the courts.
Mr. Daugherty is expected to join the chief executive at San Francisco, and will be a member of the party on the contemplated tour to Panama, Porto Rico and Cuba.
Names Not Revealed
While declining to reveal the names of individuals or organizations against whom court action might be taken, the Attorney General let it be known that the facts in the case had been before Department of Justice officials for some months.
Mr. Daugherty will confer with his assistants, who have been handling the case immediately upon his arrival in San Francisco, he said.
"A bad industrial situation has developed in San Francisco because of the long conflict between the building workers and the building material forces which seemed bent on their destruction," Mr. Daugherty said.
The menace of an ugly temper, developed by the conflict, extending to other fields is in itself, in the view of Department officials, sufficient ground for vigorous action, Mr. Daugherty said.
Mr. Daugherty will join the Presidential party either at San Francisco or Los Angeles, and will sail with the Chief Executive on the contemplated tour of the Canal Zone, Porto Rico and Cuba.

Wyoming Towns Submerged By Floods

CASPER, WYO., July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—With unofficial estimates of the damage placed at nearly $1,500,000, the region west and northwest of here, extending as far as Thermopolis, is struggling to get its head above the flood waters which deluged that section yesterday. The damage to the Burlington Railroad between Arapahoe and Thermopolis, a stretch of 80 miles, is estimated at close to $750,000.
Because wires are down most of the way between Arapahoe, 35 miles northwest of here, and Thermopolis, it is difficult to ascertain the exact amount of damage. No loss of life is reported thus far. The Burlington reports three steel bridges southwest of here and two smaller bridges besides a large amount of railroad road bed washed out.
Alkali Creek, Badwater and Wind Rivers all are running bank full. Badwater has opened several new channels and has caused the most havoc.
Several bridges on the Northwestern Railroad between here and Lander are reported swept away by the high water.
Trains Marooned
Two Northwestern trains are marooned near Moneta, a short distance west of here, with water on both sides of them. Burlington officials do not expect to have regular train service resumed between here and Thermopolis and Billings for nearly six weeks.
All tourist travel is being routed via Salt Creek and Buffalo to the Yellowstone Park. There are many bridges out west, southwest and northwest of Casper.
Three cloud bursts swept Casper yesterday, one about 4:00 o'clock in the morning, one yesterday afternoon and one last night. Platte River is running bank full, but is not considered dangerous at present.
Water is rising at Thermopolis and many buildings are flooded. Water from the Big Horn River, late reports said, was nearly up to the top of the rails at the Burlington depot, one of the highest points in the city.
The entire town of Booneville is reported under two to five feet of water.

Relatives No Good In Business, Says Schwab

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, disclosed one of his business tenets when he testified yesterday in the trial of Charles W. Morse and others on charges of war time shipping frauds that he had told Mr. Morse's relatives were "no good in business."
Describing as a defense witness his efforts while head of the emergency steel corporation to speed up shipbuilding, Mr. Schwab said he told Mr. Morse at a conference attended by his three sons, who are on trial with him that he "was making a mistake from the standpoint of efficiency" in not curtailing the activities of his sons in his ship building operations.
"In all my experience," Mr. Schwab said, "I have never found it wise to have my relatives in my business. I would never have any of them. Most men's sons won't work like I want people to work for me."

To Discuss Elimination Of Twelve Hour Day

NEW YORK, July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, today announced that presidents of 44 corporations many subsidiaries would meet here tomorrow to discuss elimination of the twelve hour day, for which the industry long has been criticized.
Mr. Gary said he had called the meeting "to consider how and on what basis and when to begin to eliminate the twelve hour day, if being our desire and intention to proceed as vigorously as possible."
"The intention of the steel industry to rid itself of the twelve-hour day became known recently when President Harding while in Taroma, made public correspondence between him and directors of the Iron and Steel Institute, in which the steel men pledged themselves to the revisions of shifts as quickly as possible.
Labor leaders then questioned when a start would be made, and Mr. Gary, in recent interviews in this city said the United States Steel Corporation planned to make a beginning as soon as increasing labor supplies from Mexico, the south, the Philippines and elsewhere made it possible. More recently he estimated that a start would be made within six weeks.

Morgue Cure For Would-Be Suicide

LIMA, O., July 25.—(By the A. P.)—One hour of an enforced 24 hour sentence with the dead in the local morgue convinced Charles Voorhees, 60, confessed attempted suicide, that he was not ready to die and he left the remaining 23 hours for some other more courageous man to serve. Voorhees made a clean get-away unassisted.
Police Judge Emmett Jackson late yesterday ordered Voorhees locked up for 24 hours in the morgue after he had been arrested for attempting self destruction by standing in the aisle of a street car track waiting for a car, which did not come before the police, to hit him. He told his family and neighbors that he intended to kill himself and rushed to the street in front of his home where he stood patiently waiting the "death car" while anxious and morbid spectators watched. He was arrested on a charge of drunkenness.
Judge Jackson conceived the idea that Voorhees might not be so anxious to die if he were forced to spend a day and night in the immediate presence of the dead and ponder how he himself might appear were he too, to occupy a marble slab.
The 24 hour sentence to the morgue followed.
Judge Jackson was right. Sixty minutes was enough for Voorhees. Voorhees is the father of six children.

Mark Twain's Old Home Destroyed By Fire

REDDING, CONN., July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Stormfield, the home of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) in the closing years of his life—a picturesque villa on a hillside in this town was burned early today. It was unoccupied for many years after Mr. Clemens' death and was bought last December by Mrs. Margaret E. Givens, of New York.
The home was built to carry out the ideas and wishes of Mr. Clemens and with the other buildings comprised a country estate.
In this home Mark Twain spent his last years and as he expressed it, experienced some of the deepest sorrows of his life, as well as some of his happiest days. Here his younger daughter Janet, met a tragic death, and here there was a burglary which aroused widespread interest.
In Stormfield Mr. Clemens lay ill for a long time and from it his body was borne to its last resting place.
His house contained 18 rooms with two bath rooms and a large loggia. From its north windows the panorama was of the Litchfield Hills while to the south the scene was over broken wooded country to the waters of Long Island Sound.
Mrs. Givens, her daughter, Thelma and her son Edward, were in the house when the latter discovered the fire in the laundry, and all were obliged to leave in their night garments. Practically nothing in the house was saved. The fire is thought to have started from spontaneous combustion among painting materials in the laundry.
The place was originally valued at $175,000 with the house representing a large part of this figure.

Damage Suit Over Broken Wrist Is Being Heard At Greenup, Ky.

GREENUP, KY., July 25 — Special to the Times) — Judging from the time taken in introducing evidence the case of Lawrence Lett against Dr. Albert S. Brady for $10,000 damages, will not get to the jury before Thursday. The trial started Tuesday, but little time was taken in hearing the evidence of witnesses for Lett who alleges he sustained a broken wrist in a fight with a man at the Ohio River Dam at Greenup, Ky., and that Dr. Brady did not give it the proper attention. Dr. Selmon, of Ashland, who operated on the wrist and removed a small particle of bone testified for the defense yesterday afternoon. Dr. S. S. Halberman and J. W. Fitch, of Portsmouth, were called to the witness stand yesterday afternoon among the first witnesses for the defense. This morning Dr. Brady himself and Dr. W. F. Marling, of Brownsville, were on the stand. Dr. J. R. Keithburn, of Russell, Ky., is to be heard this afternoon. A large number of witnesses were summoned for both sides and this afternoon it looked as if the jury would not receive the case until Thursday. This will be the last case in this two week's session of circuit court.

It Pays To Advertise

The power of advertising was again demonstrated Monday when the Atlas Company, 406 Chillicothe practically sold out fifty dozen gingham house dresses at $1.59 each. The rush was almost overwhelming when the doors opened at nine o'clock, and extra sales people had to be placed on the second floor where the sale was held.

This was the third sale of gingham house dresses, the store has held this season. On the two previous occasions 25 dozen dresses were disposed of, each time. They were snapped up in a hurry, and the complete stock each time did not last longer than three or four hours. The Atlas Co., is already planning to sell these dresses next summer, the sales having been so successful this year.

The wonderful success of the dress sale here is only a parallel of similar sales in other cities. In what was probably the greatest sale of its kind ever held, Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia, on the same day the Atlas Co., had its sale disposed of 50,000 of the dresses in a day. The crush at the store was so great that the police and firemen had to be called out to handle the crowds.

High Priced Auto To Have Been Delivered Here Catches Fire Near Waverly; Destroyed

(Special To The Times)
WAVERLY, O., July 25.—A McFarlan automobile, which cost $8,750 when purchased, caught fire at midnight last night near the D. T. & L. crossing just south of this place and was burned to the chassis. Buck firing ignited gasoline, which it is believed caused the fire. The wreckage was brought to this place and is on exhibition in the court house yard.

The machine was in charge of a son of the owner, who lives in Pittsburgh. He was brought to Portsmouth in a moving van, which came along just after it had been destroyed. The driver claimed the machine had been sold to a Portsmouth man and he was delivering it when the fire occurred.

George Birch, a salesman for the Columbus Merchandise company, who left Portsmouth at 11 o'clock last night, was at the Crooked Creek bridge just south of Waverly when the car caught fire and was the first person to reach it. It had been in use a year and a half, and was damaged when it figured in a wreck on July 4th last.

Finds Jail Door Open; Woman Walks Out

Arrested by the police yesterday afternoon as a fugitive from justice for the authorities of Fullerton, Ky., where, it was claimed, she escaped from the village jail Monday night following her arrest on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct. Mrs. Nellie Newman, 1011 Washington street, was later released on the advice of the Kentucky authorities, when she failed on going back to that state without extradition papers. The Fullerton officers explained their action in ordering the woman freed by saying that the charge against her was not sufficient to warrant going to the expense of securing requisition papers.

According to advice received by Chief Distel, the Newman woman and her young man companion were arrested near Fullerton Monday night, the young man being taken to prison, and the woman was incarcerated in the small village calaboose.

Several hours later, on about two o'clock Tuesday morning, Mrs. Newman told the officers, the jail door suddenly opened and a man's voice called out, "Do you want out?" When she answered that she did and walked out into the rain, Mrs. Newman stated, the man had disappeared and there was no one about to be seen. She said that she made her way to the river and borrowing a skiff paddled across the river to the Ohio shore.

France Preparing

So vivid is the thought of another war in 15 years that already the French are beginning to worry about the fact that when that time comes they will be outnumbered in man power by Germany almost two to one. The French are doing everything they can do to increase the birth rate. They realize that because of the heavy losses in men during the war families that would have been born and would have furnished troops for the years beginning 1935 or thereabouts will simply not exist for France. In 1914 the French birth rate was much lower than the German. Indeed, the French have been passing all kinds of laws urging people to marry and have larger families. Reduced railroad fares, exemptions from certain taxes, and other inducements have been offered to stimulate the raising of larger families.

Even if the war had not broken out in 1914, statisticians had it all figured out that the population of France would fall from 38,000,000 to 35,000,000 in 1950. The loss of a million and a half men must be taken into consideration as a permanent factor in the next twenty years as well as the fact that while practically all men in France were at the front the birth rate declined so much that estimates today are very pessimistic for the French army. Some statisticians claim that the French will be unable to put into the field fifteen years hence half the number of men they were able to mobilize in 1914.

As for the Germans, they always did have an excess in population because they have believed right along in raising large families. Losses in man power during the war will not affect Germany half as much as France. The last war, the French claim, has tended to stabilize Germany's supply of man power, removing some of the inconveniences of over population for which Germany has been seeking an outlet for the last two decades.

All this is predicted, of course, on the idea that the wars of the future as in the past will depend upon the size of the land armies and will not depend either on naval or air supremacy. It is curious, indeed, in talking to military men here to find them still thinking in terms of forts, guns and trench warfare. They do not seem to be as fearful of the use of new weapons of warfare as might be expected. For instance, there is a good deal of agitation in the press just now about the gradually increasing size of the British air fleet which will challenge France's supremacy of the air. Similarly the French have succeeded in exempting from the Washington naval limitations treaty, restrictions on submarines. But nothing seems to have been done about chemical warfare.

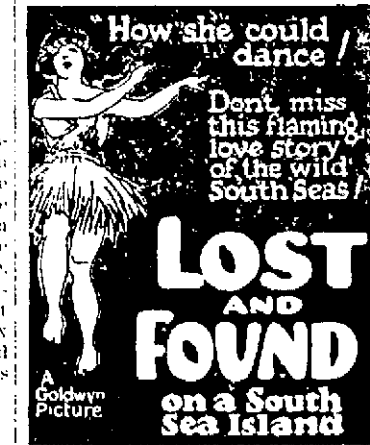

American experts have figured out that a whole city of people could be wiped out in a few hours by dropping rain gas from airplanes, and that it war lasted a few months longer tens of thousands of troops would have been killed by the allies through the use of these new inventions. To all this the French do not seem to have risen. They say it is as yet unproved that chemicals are as deadly as claimed. They say the last war did not prove that gas bombs killed as many men as shells and bullets, so they will stick to these as the principal weapons and will think of war in terms of another German invasion by infantry and artillery. There is no doubt that the Germans are relying to some extent on the new weapons of warfare for the next conflict.

Underlying the French apprehension is the ingrained fear of the German capacity for invention and mischief. The psychology of the hour is still war. As for America, there are factious Frenchmen who say: "Of course, the United States will not be drawn in—that is, not for the first two years."

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I hope you will permit me space in your column for the benefit of some of the afflicted men in our city who are so opposed to bobbed hair. All the boys and men have their hair bobbed, do they not? You know it used to be the style for men to wear long hair, too. Then some one conceived the idea of having it bobbed. They liked it, so the others followed suit. You see, when a man thinks up something and tries it and likes it, he goes on and does it and says nothing about it—so much for his good sense. Now, I believe we women have just as much good sense but we're so stingy about using it that we pay a high price for our stupidity. We keep our curls simply bobbed, all done up in switches and rats and other monstrous things, this hot weather, and even in cool weather our heads are bound up uncomfortably with hairpins if we wish our coiffures to look at all neat and becoming. The unfortunate women who have an abundance of natural hair are more to be pitied than the women who have to wear switches and things, because they cannot even take part of their hair off at night. I believe that bobbed hair is most sensible, sanitary style that has come woman's way for a long while. Every thinking woman should take advantage of it. Anyway, long hair is only for flappers. By "flappers" I mean those (male or female) who care for all clothes and outward appearances. The studious or really busy women have no time to care for their hair, to give it the style that fashion demands. To them, the switches, rats, puff and other coiffure accessories are an abomination, and entirely too extravagant for everyday fashion. The women or men who desire to use their thoughts and time and energy for higher and better purposes than mere outward adornments must, I'm sure, enjoy and appreciate the privilege of wearing short hair.

suppose this phrase was coined by a mere man who admired their beautiful long hair. However, I think bobbed hair is a personal matter with all concerned, and if a girl wants to bob her hair that is her privilege. The men who criticize them for bobbing their hair probably wear velvet shirts and red ties or go around with an unshaved neck and a three days' growth on their face, and that's that.

Dear Dolly Wise—Will you please settle an argument. One person says there can be no wit without puns, the other says that we could have wit without puns. C. AND V. Surely we can have wit without puns. Wit means felicitous perception of expression of association between ideas or words not usually connected, such as to produce an amusing surprise. A witty person is keen and quick in perception of ideas and words and clever and happy in expression. It is more purely intellectual than humor. A pun is a play upon words of the same sound but a different meaning, or on different meanings of the same word.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — UNDER THE SEA

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton
THE LITTLE GLOOMS

"We're Little Glooms," said one.

MASTER SKY ROW and Nancy and Nick tramped back to the big rainbow door. It was tight shut. "I used to know a charm that would open it," said the little fairy. "Oh, now I remember!" It went: "Without and within and behind and before." Please open wide, big rainbow door! Instantly the big door rolled open and the Twins slipped through, followed by Master Sky Row. Then it shut again without a sound. "Now to find old Cross Patch," said Master Sky Row. "Oh, look!" cried Nick, pointing to the ground. "There are some footprints. They must be his." "Yes, sir, they are as sure as your 'born'!" declared the fairyman. "Come along, kiddies." They followed the footprints through a dark forest and by and by came to a clear place where there were a lot of little black houses.

"Wet Blanket Town!" said a big sign on a post. Suddenly a lot of little black figures came out of the little houses and swarmed about the visitors. "Who are you?" asked Nick. "We're Little Glooms," said one. "We're the unhappy fairies who live here. We didn't use to be unhappy. We're only unhappy because Master Cross Patch, the bad old wizard, came here to live and as he likes everyone to be miserable, he waded his magic stick over us." "Where does he live?" asked Nancy. "Over there in that ugly house," answered the little Gloom. "He's been away, but he's home now. He just came." "We know where he was," said Nick. "He's been to Rainbow Land doing a lot of damage. Will you help us to get his stick?" "Sure!" said the little Glooms. (To Be Continued)

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — UNDER THE SEA
BY ELTON

And then the little man of the deep slipped the fish line home around the bottom fish. "Now climb inside," he shouted to Jack, and the little venturer crawled into the old basket. But the balloon fish refused to move. "Oh, well, make him move," shouted Jack. And reaching in his pocket he took out a gumdrop. "Stick it on the end of the fish pole," he suggested to the watermate. The little fellow did and when the balloon fish saw it, he started swimming toward it. Of course, the faster the fish swam the faster the gum drop traveled. Jack enjoyed this ride very much for it was just like the big balloon he had seen in the air. He traveled on and was carried into a great mass of seaweed. This undersea growth was so thick that it broke the string holding the basket to the balloon fish. (Continued.)

Shock Kills Husband The case of another woman, which Mr. Maloney cited, resulted in the death of her husband from shock, after he had received one of the letters with which Maxwell was alleged always to have drawn his affairs to a close, with a duplicate to himself. According to the prosecutor, Maxwell, on being shown one of the notes by an irate husband, produced its contents and joined with the husband in denouncing the author.

According to Maloney Maxwell, whom he said began life as a piano tuner on the Isle of Wight, traveled to London, Paris, Lake Como and Milan with the financier's wife, and later visited her at work at York Harbor, Maine. She, Maloney set forth, had in turn visited him in his New York apartment.

Maloney quoted radiograms which, he said, had been exchanged between Maxwell and Mrs. Ryan at one time when he was in New York and she was on the high seas. One of these messages, quoted by the prosecutor, alleged to have been sent by Mrs. Ryan, read, in part: "I am counting the hours. I will be there to meet you in Paris, love, only love. Love of life."

Altogether Maloney charged Maxwell with writing 135 poison-pen letters.

Paints Maxwell As Lothario, Making Love To Women, Then Sending Out Poison Pen Letter

NEW YORK, July 25—A portrait of George Maxwell, President of the American Society for Authors, Composers and Publishers, as a Lothario who made love to many women, and when he became bored, rid himself of them by writing poison pen letters to their husbands and relatives, was drawn yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Maloney.

The picture was sketched in a brief filed in General Sessions, opposing a motion by Maxwell's counsel to dismiss indictments charging his client with having written such letters received by Allen A. Ryan, prominent Wall Street trader, and many others. Judge McIntyre reserved decision on the motion.

Like German Scandal The brief—one of the most remarkable in the history of New York Jurisprudence—charged Maxwell with penning poison letters for more than ten years. According to the District Attorney's office, the letters were modeled after the famous German Court letters, which rocked the foundations of Royal society in several countries about 1900 and, which, it developed, were written by Baron von Koltz, who attacked the reputation of Court ladies and, to avoid suspicion, sent similar letters to himself.

To support his charges, Mr. Maloney cited a number of alleged intimacies between Maxwell and women of prominence in the social and artistic world. According to the Assistant District Attorney the latest and most prominent woman to indulge in an affair with Maxwell was Mrs. Ryan, wife of the financier, who attracted attention during the famous Stulow case, and a member of the Pack family, of Philadelphia. Others whom Maloney listed among Maxwell's ex-inamoratas were a Danish opera singer, a motion-picture actress, with whom he is alleged to have toured Mexico, a concert singer and a ballet dancer.

Shock Kills Husband The case of another woman, which Mr. Maloney cited, resulted in the death of her husband from shock, after he had received one of the letters with which Maxwell was alleged always to have drawn his affairs to a close, with a duplicate to himself. According to the prosecutor, Maxwell, on being shown one of the notes by an irate husband, produced its contents and joined with the husband in denouncing the author.

According to Maloney Maxwell, whom he said began life as a piano tuner on the Isle of Wight, traveled to London, Paris, Lake Como and Milan with the financier's wife, and later visited her at work at York Harbor, Maine. She, Maloney set forth, had in turn visited him in his New York apartment.

Maloney quoted radiograms which, he said, had been exchanged between Maxwell and Mrs. Ryan at one time when he was in New York and she was on the high seas. One of these messages, quoted by the prosecutor, alleged to have been sent by Mrs. Ryan, read, in part: "I am counting the hours. I will be there to meet you in Paris, love, only love. Love of life."

Altogether Maloney charged Maxwell with writing 135 poison-pen letters.

Reunion Of Methodist Churches Seems Assured

CLEVELAND, O., July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Reunion of the northern and southern branches of the Methodist Episcopal church since 1845, was declared to be practically assured when members of the joint commission on unification, convened today.

The commission had before it a plan for the union drafted by a joint committee of 16, eight from each branch was approved by the northern and southern branches in separate meetings yesterday. The action of these commissions has made possible a united church by 1925, Dr. A. W. Harris, general secretary of the board of education of the northern branch and secretary of its unification commission declared.

The northern commission adopted the plan exactly in the form it was reported by the joint committee but the southern members requested a few changes, said to be minor in detail. Members of the joint commission were confident that the matter would be ironed out satisfactorily to both sides.

The plan requires the changing by each branch of its constitution to provide for the merger of the general conferences, of which the two divisions, which heretofore have held separate meetings every four years. Both general conferences and the annual conferences of the church must ratify the changes.

THE YELLOW SEVEN. THE HUT IN THE CLEARING

BY EDMUND SKELL.

CIEA SERVICE INC. 1923

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Peter Pennington, detective, is detailed by the government to capture the leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, procures a warrant for the arrest of Chai-Hung, influential Chinese. Hewitt is captured by The Yellow Seven and Pennington goes to hunt for him. He is accompanied by Hewitt's beautiful sister, Monica Viney. Pennington learns that Hewitt's cook boy is a member of The Yellow Seven.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She tripped over a root that crossed the ill-marked path, and stumbled against him, gasping for breath.

"I'm so—sorry," she panted. "I—simply—can't—do it!"

Pennington steadied her with his arm, apologizing profusely.

He looked up and saw that the guide had disappeared.

This with the first serious hitch that had occurred. Swearing softly to himself, he carried her the next thirty yards, rested her against a tree, and flashed his torch in all directions, sweeping it in all directions.

Suddenly he plunged forward and caught the delinquent cowering behind a thorn-bush. He drew the shivering Wong-See from his hiding-place, then kicked him with astonishing accuracy.

The remedy proved efficacious for, throughout the final phases of the nocturnal expedition, Wong-See made no further attempt to elude his captor!

The guide stopped abruptly, dropping to his hands and knees, and Pennington, creeping up to him, extinguished the torch. Monica, her hands torn and bleeding, her neck and wrists so many itching zones where the thirsty suckers of the jungle had taken their toll, felt herself forced from the main track by the sudden pressure of her companion's left arm. Ahead of them—scarcely twenty paces distant—a light flickered for a moment and then went out.

Pennington's lips pressed against her ear, breathed two words: "Chai-Hung's sentry!"

Pennington's hand had left Monica's arm and a subdued restlessness, yet constant something was going on at her side. Presently she felt a solid mass press against her and found that she was gripping the torch that Pennington had thrust toward her. She groped wildly in the darkness with her free hand. For a matter of seconds her heart stood still, for in the space where she had believed Pennington to be—there was nothing! Her fingers dropped suddenly to a warm, motionless body that lay prostrate at her side.

She withdrew her hand, shuddering inwardly, and somehow the torch flashed in the blackness, sending a bar of brilliant light straight down the track that stretched before her. She saw a huddled form, cowering on what might have been a fallen trunk and then, before the creature—surprised by the illumination—could bestir itself, a white-clad figure had sprung like a panther from the trees—and overwhelmed it.

She saw no more, for her throat had found the switch and pushed it into place. She knew now that the form she had touched was that of the miserable Wong-See, who was effectively gagged and bound.

"Come on," said the voice of Pennington in her ear. "I fancy I've cleared the path."

She was beginning to understand the reason for her brother's deep-rooted confidence in this amazing man, with the strength and cunning of a primal savage—and the table-manners of a prince!

So cautious were their movements after this that Monica felt prompted to cry aloud, to laugh, anything to relieve the appalling monotony. A broad, squat shadow loomed presenting in front of them, a tumble-down wooden erecution from which issued the sound of subdued voices. Pennington drew her along with him toward a spot where a light showed between the rotting timbers.

Crunching in the weeds that rose waist-high in the clearing, she peered through. In the center of the apartment around a broad stone slab, she counted seven Orientals. His back to her, cind in a gorgeous wide-sleeved jacket of dark blue silk on which was embroidered a many-headed dragon, sat an elderly Chinaman whose enormous proportions could belong to no other man she had yet seen than the arch-criminal whom Pennington sought to secure red-handed.

On the stone slab, like so many sponge-fingers, Chinese playing cards were spread face-downward and, even as the girl bent forward, a yellow hand began passing to and fro over the surface of the improved table, sweeping the cards into a shapeless mass.

Each drew a card except the man whose back was toward her, who sat motionless as a carved figure, silent and watchful as the sphinx. She saw the cards turned so that they formed the nucleus of seven packs, their converging circles of black and red showing clearly in the light of a hurricane lamp that hung askew from a beam. The light flickered and an arm shot up from the huddled group and raised the wick. For a moment it flared to the roof, illuminating every corner of the building, and Monica gasped. Half-hidden behind a log, his arms stretched out beyond his head, the wrists secured by leather thongs, his knees drawn up almost to his chest, lay the Commissioner of Police. The head came slowly round and the prostrate man gazed inquiringly toward the squatting circle. As if realizing that she had seen Pennington's fingers closed on her arm and at that instant, she realized the significance of those even, over-increasing piles of greasy cards. They were drawing for the Yellow Seven!

A LONG BLADE FLASHED IN THE LAMPLIGHT.

She closed her eyes to still the throbbing of her fevered brain. She opened them again, and acting on a sudden impulse, glanced up at Pennington. He was kneeling on the soft earth, one eye to the narrower portion of the chink that served as a spy-hole, while the barrel of his automatic was thrust partly through the wider extremity of the aperture. She caught something of the infection of the calm that seemed to pervade his being, and looked back into the hut in time to see a tall Chinaman in black rise to his full length, a hideous grin illuminating his swarthy features, the Yellow Seven held aloft. The guttural chattering began again, ten cards were swept into a neat pile, disappearing into the capacious sleeve of the man who had originally spread them out, and the hand of the Oriental who held the Yellow Seven slipped to his waist.

Every head was turned toward the Commissioner as a long blade flashed in the lamp-light, and the Chinaman,

Boils

There is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th Street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it!"

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

still gesticulating, rose one by one, spreading themselves out along the walls; but the figure in the mandarin jacket, embroidered with a many-headed dragon, remained in precisely the same position as that in which Monica had first seen him.

The tall Oriental in black drew back his sleeve and tested the blade with a grimy thumb. A sudden hush fell upon the entire assembly and the girl, cramped and trembling, became aware of the ticking of the watch at her wrist. In all this ghastly nightmare, these senseless, sinister gestures rang out as the sole links with the normal existence she had left behind her. She tried to think of the bungalow on the hill, the long cane chairs with their many cushions, the winding path that led, ribbon-like to the road, the wooden jetty where the coasting steamers lay at anchor, but these phantom pictures refused to materialize and her eyes, sore and tingling, gazed straight before her, fixed, because she was powerless to withdraw them, upon whom the lot had fallen to destroy her brother.

Someone came forward and threw aside the log, and the hand that held the knife swept upward aloft.

Pennington's pistol broke upon the stillness. The man with the dagger spun round awkwardly—and collapsed in a heap. Cries of terror resounded on every side, and a hand, reaching upward, plunged the building in darkness.

Monica and Pennington rose simultaneously.

"Stop where you are," he called back to her. "Lie close up to the wall. They'll be too scared to look for you there."

He raced on toward the entrance and Monica, too dazed to catch the meaning of his words, followed in his wake. As she stumbled through the undergrowth she remembered that she still carried the torch. Vague shadowy forms slithered past her, stampeding as if surprised by a regiment of soldiers, rather than by one white man and a girl. She heard them crashing away into the distance and somewhere a man screamed in mortal terror as he ran, as if fearful that the friend who strove to keep pace with him wore the avenging Englishman seeking his life.

As their footsteps died away, Monica switched on the torch. The door of the building stood wide open before her and she let the light travel from left to right, from Pennington kneeling over something on the floor to the huddled heap that sprawled awkwardly within a foot of where her brother lay. She ran forward with a little cry and fell on her knees at his side. She was reaching out for the knife the Chinaman had let fall when Pennington from the darkness.

"Monica—er—Mrs. Viney!—Just switch that light over here a second. There's something I don't quite understand."

The Commissioner stirred and his eyes blinked up at her.

With shaking hands, she steered the narrow ray until it concentrated on the disguised features of Pennington, who was slowly rising to his feet from the thing over which he had been kneeling.

She saw a preposterous effigy, a cunningly contrived figure of straw, with china mask and hands, over which a coat of blue embroidered with a many-headed dragon was still drawn!

Cuts Corner, Haney Fined In Chillicothe

William Haney, R. F. D. No. 1, Scioto county, has learned that it is rather expensive to cut corners in Chillicothe. He was found guilty of cutting across in the Ancient Metropolis and drew a fine of $5 and costs.

The same traffic officer, who nabbed Haney caught Dr. George S. Menger, a former local citizen speeding and he drew a fine of $5 and costs.

Willys-Overland Is Given In Control Of Distributors Group

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 25.—Interests said to include Willys-Overland distributors and represented by Thomas H. Tracy, yesterday became owners of 750,800 shares of Willys-Overland common stock, purchased for $3,500,000 when their bid for that amount was accepted by Federal Judge John C. Knox in the suit in equity receivership of the Willys-Holding Corporation and Toledo, Ohio.

Judge Knox accepted the Tracy bid yesterday after having Monday taken under advisement two bids, one from the Tracy interests for three million dollars and one from a bank of creditors' committee for three and a half million. The bid of the Tracy group was increased by half a million dollars when again submitted today. It was said to have been favored because of certain protective guarantees in six thousand Willys-Holding Corporation stockholders, who hold Willys-Overland stock valued at $15,000,000. The Tracy interests offered to stand responsible for liabilities of the Willys Holding Corporation up to $500,000.

John N. Willys, head of the Willys-Overland Company, was understood to favor the Tracy bid, in view of the protection afforded holding company stockholders. An official of the company stated that Mr. Willys was not financially interested in the transaction.

PLANNING BIG THINGS FOR PIKE CO. FAIR

PIKETON, O., July 25.—Preparations for the seventeenth annual Pike County Fair, which will be held at Pike-ton on Tuesday, July 31st to Thursday, August 2nd, are well advanced. The fair is being held on the grounds of the Pike County Agricultural Association.

Workmen have been busy for the past two weeks in cleaning up the fair grounds and getting the race track in shape for the six big racing events that will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The purses for these races are larger than ever this year. The total amount of the purses being $2,400, and there will be more than one hundred race horses quartered in the barns at the fair grounds to participate in the races. The barns and fences on the grounds have been given a coat of whitewash and the grounds will present a very attractive appearance to the thousands of people who are to be in attendance at the fair.

There will be no admission charge on Tuesday, the first day, as this day will be devoted to getting the Art Exhibit buildings decorated and in place. The various exhibits, on account of there being no admission charge on this day, there will be no charge. One of the Art Exhibit buildings will be devoted almost entirely to the Grange Exhibits, which promise to be better than ever this year. Each Grange making an exhibit will be awarded a prize of $25, and in addition to this prize there will be a prize of $50 for the best Grange exhibit, a prize of $40 for the second best Grange exhibit and a prize of $25 for the third best Grange exhibit.

There will be forty pure bred Poland China hogs entered in the show and girls pig club exhibit and competition in this exhibit promises to be keen as there is a substantial prize offered to the boy or girl who has the best hog entered in this exhibit. In addition to a free trip to Columbus, Ohio. The entries in the girls' Food club exhibit will be larger than ever this year and the girl winning in this exhibit will be awarded a free trip to Columbus, Ohio. A Beef Cattle exhibit sent out by the State Department of Agriculture will be on the grounds and this exhibit will be in charge of a man from the State Department who will be glad to explain to the farmers, the method of feeding used in getting the cattle in the fine condition in which they are kept. The Poland China Breed Promotion Committee co-operating with the fair management are offering $200 in prizes for the four best Poland China hogs from a litter. There will be ten litters entered in this class, each litter consisting of four hogs. This promises to be the best hog show ever staged in Pike county, and no doubt there will be some very excellent specimens of the swine family exhibited in this class. The barns will be filled with splendid specimens of horses, cattle and sheep and the livestock show will be the largest one ever held at the Pike-ton Fair. A grand parade of the livestock will be held in front of the grandstand on Thursday and Friday afternoon. L. O. Warner and E. M. Steiner, two practical poultrymen, will be in charge of the poultry show and several hundred entries will probably be exhibited. The fair management has always been particular to the class of midway attractions and as usual the midway will be lined with clean moral shows and games. The new law which provides for the licensing of all concessionaires has done much toward cleaning up the midway and this year the farmers and their families who come to the fair for the things they can learn will not be subjects of the wily tongues and magic hands of the professional fair fakery. Barr Brothers will be on the grounds with their Merry-Go-Round and Ferris Wheel to furnish refreshing and restful rides for the tired crowds. Wolfe & Co., of Columbus, one of the largest redemption concession companies in the state will be on the grounds to dispense hot dog, ice cream and cool drinks to the hungry and thirsty crowds. Music will be furnished on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday by the Wellston Band.

The following is the racing program for the three days: Wednesday, August 1st, Green Trot and Pace confined to county horses, purse $50; 2:35 pace, purse $300; 2:40 trot, purse, $250. Thursday, August 2nd, 2:15 pace, purse $300; 2:20 trot, purse $300; 2:15 pace, purse $300. Friday, August 3rd, 2:24 pace, purse $300; 2:35 trot, purse $300; 2:30 pace, purse $300. The Pike-ton Fair has always been held as a means of imparting useful information to the farmers, who make up a large percentage of the population of Pike County, and not a money making proposition. With this idea in view the management has always kept the price of admission as low as possible and there will be no increase in admission prices.

In order to maintain the Pike-ton Fair, a number of public citizens of Pike-ton and Pike county each year, give liberally of their time and money to insure its success and the people of Pike county and surrounding territory should show their appreciation by giving this institution their hearty support.

COMPLETION OF DAM NEAR GALLIPOLIS ANOTHER LINK IN NINE FOOT STAGE

The Huntington Herald-Dispatch says:

There is an unbroken nine foot stage of water between Huntington and Pittsburgh according to a press received here last night from the U. S. Engineers headquarters in Cincinnati. The announcement was made on the completion of locks and dams No. 28, at Gallipolis and above Gallipolis. The finishing work was done on the dams yesterday, and the gates were closed at 6 o'clock and the entire completed.

The news was hailed joyfully by local rivermen, as it will make shipping facilities between Pittsburgh and Ashland, Ky., absolutely sure. J. C. Carter, president of the Hunting Wharf and Storage company, when apprised of the fact that the dams were completed, expressed satisfaction in the work.

"This improvement is what rivermen have been looking forward to for years, and will undoubtedly be a great asset to shipping."

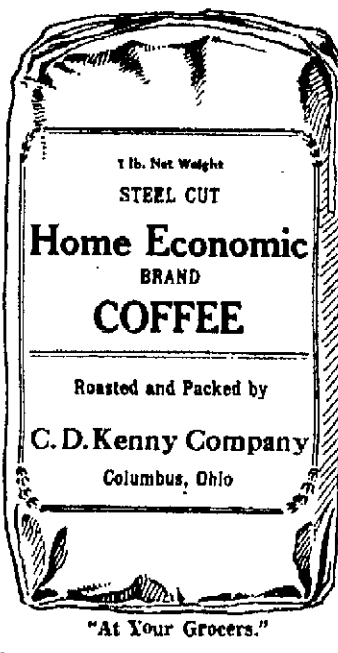

The completion of these locks and dams finishes the first lap of the government race to a nine foot stage of water from Pittsburgh to St. Louis. This will make "The Narrows" just above Dam 27, long feared in the summer time by river men, one of the safest spots on the river. "The Narrows" in the familiar lingo of rivermen known as "The Narrows" occurred at a bend in the river half way between Pt. Pleasant and Gallipolis and in the low water time is filled with snags and treacherous sand bars. The current when there is a current, is an ever changing one. It takes a skillful pilot to steer a heavily loaded craft up the stream, or pilot its course when bound down stream. The down stream course is the safest for then the engines may be shut off the boat allowed to drift. When this is done she draws a great deal less water.

Now all those days are over, for navigation will be a clear and continuous proposition from Ashland to Pittsburgh. The dams were tested Saturday, and dropped for the first time yesterday.

Not only will the Pittsburgh boats benefit by the nine foot stage, but the Cincinnati, Huntington and Charleston will be largely benefited, as they are forced to pass through the dangerous water before entering the Kanawha river.

There are three Pittsburgh to Cin-

Lived Like Gentlemen

NEW YORK, July 25.—Albert Horowitz and Eugene Moran, arrested Monday in Princeton, N. J., in connection with the robbery of $300,000 in jewels from Mrs. C. P. Hugh Schoellkopf, in New York last New Year's Eve, were held in $125,000 bail each yesterday, highest amount ever set in General Sessions. Protesting their innocence, the two were led away to Tombs Prison, as there was no sign of the $250,000 required to give them their freedom.

Fixing of bail followed their assertion that they had been living like Southern gentlemen in Biloxi, Miss., when detectives once lost their trail that led through Cincinnati, New Orleans, Latonia, Columbus and Philadelphia.

Despite their declarations of innocence the Schoellkopf robbery both men were identified by Paul Engelhart, one of the guests at the New Year's party, as men who had played cards with Mrs. Schoellkopf, a few minutes before she was robbed.

It was expected that trial of Horowitz and Moran would be delayed for some time, as both Mrs. Schoellkopf and Frank "Barrie" Carman, dancer, in whose apartment the party was given, are in Paris.

A persistent report was circulated about the Criminal Court Building yesterday that a claim of $200,000 insurance due on the stolen gems had been withdrawn. The claim was made upon the Federal Insurance Company shortly after the robbery.

YOU DON'T JUST BUY GLASSES
You buy the scientific knowledge of optics — the science that created the telescope — the microscope — the camera, as well as the technical knowledge of the eye, its functions and its needs, these are the essentials that make good glasses possible.

Market News

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, July 25—Prices continuing reactionary at the opening of today's stock market, recession covering a wide assortment of representative shares including the steels, equipments, oils and sugars. Ralls moved irregularly.

Steels, equipments, rails and oils again were under considerable pressure in the early trading with evidence of a continuation of yesterday's short selling operations. Losses of a point or more were recorded by a miscellaneous list of shares including American Woolen, Central Leather preferred, American Tobacco "B", Mack Truck and Stewart Warner.

Foreign exchange rates with the exception of German mark which touched a new low, opened steady.

The course of prices continued downward throughout the morning. A few scattered buying orders near midday brought partial recovery to some stocks. As was the case yesterday, the selling attack appeared to be aimed particularly at the rails, steels and equipments. Merchandise shares such as Associated Dry Goods, Sears Roebuck and United Drug also were depressed, the former named declining 2 points. Consolidated Gas ran counter to the market advancing 1 1/2 points. Great Northern preferred was off 1/4 and St. Paul preferred 1/8. Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent.

Prices moved uncertainly in today's stock market, practically the entire list fell off in the first hour on offerings of professional bear traders. There was a gradual improvement as supporting orders were executed later and the market drifted aimlessly to the close. Sales approximated 445,000 shares.

The closing was irregular.

Buying based largely on reports of black rust in the Canadian north and on strength in the corn market here led to higher prices in the wheat market today after an early decline. The close was firm at 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 per cent advance with September 98 1/2 to 98 3/4 and December 101 1/2 to 101 3/4.

One of the most delightful affairs of the season was the family reunion of the Kings, given Sunday, July 22nd, on the spacious lawn at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest T. King in Kentucky, given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. King of Baltimore, Md., who are here visiting relatives and friends in Portsmouth, Wheelersburg and vicinity.

Dinner was served at the noon hour on the lawn under the magnificent trees. The table fairly groined under a load of all the delicious viands of the season. The affair brought together more than thirty relatives and friends.

Those who enjoyed the pleasures of the day were: Mr. and Mrs. James M. King of Frost, Ky.; Mrs. Myrtle King Eatherly and children, Ralph, Garnet and Paul, of King's addition; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morton and daughter, Dorothy, Mr. Frank Gray and granddaughter, Geneva Adams of Fullerton, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wood, Miss Mary Holmes, Mr. Ford King, Mr. and Mrs. J. Albro King, Mrs. Lydia Newhouse and children, Ernest, Elvora and Pauline, of Portsmouth; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. King of Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Ora R. McBurne and children, Helen, Harold, Hazel and Howard, of Wheelersburg, O.; Miss Lettie Gammon, of Sunshine, Ky.; and the lost and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest King.

Miss Mary Hike of 1033 Thirteenth street is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her work as salesgirl at the Prigdon Dry Goods store.

Miss Louise Bush of Second street went to Cincinnati, Tuesday, where she will visit relatives and friends for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Bowling of 911 Eleventh street had as guests over the week end, Mrs. Bowling's mother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Carter of New Boston, in Len Vernon and daughter, Forest, of Nelsonville. They were accompanied home by their niece, Mrs. Julia Rowe, of this city, where they will spend the week.

Twenty-eight members and eight guests assembled at the home of the Misses Ada and Kate Vignas, 2202 Vinton avenue, Tuesday afternoon, when they entertained the members of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Bigelow church. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. Chris Fleer, Mrs. Volney Taylor and Mrs. R. B. Cunningham.

The meeting was opened with devotion exercises by Mrs. W. L. Tabor. During the business session three perpetual memberships were received, Mrs. Martha S. Davis, Mrs. Jane St. Clair Ball and Mrs. Elona Oakes Munner.

The resignation of Mrs. Floyd Fuller as director of the Children's Mission Band was accepted.

The program which followed consisted of a Japanese Playlet, which was cleverly presented by three attractive young girls Jean, Monty, Harriet Switalski and Mary Burns.

Miss Kate Vignas gave an explanation of the Mission Tract, which was very interesting and enjoyable. Harriet Switalski closed the program by singing "That Sweet Story of Old" a very charming number.

During the social hour the hostesses served delicious ice cream and cake. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George D. Selby on Gallia street.

Anderson Is Indicted For Extortion

NEW YORK, July 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Two indictments for extortion were added by a special grand jury today to the charges of grand larceny and forgery on which William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, must stand trial.
The grand jury also handed up a presentment in which Anderson was severely criticized for issuing statements about his case while the jury still was considering it.

Anderson was indicted for grand larceny and forgery last week. It was announced at that time that the jury had also decided to indict him for extortion. The extortion charges is based on his alleged compulsion of O.

Berthall Phillips, former solicitor for the league, to split commissions with him.

Anderson pleaded not guilty to the new indictments and his $5,000 bail was continued. He obtained an additional ten days in which his counsel could make motions.

answer to disorderly conduct complaints. They admitted guilt and after hearing their stories the court continued the cases for further investigation and warned the women against further trouble.

Big Crowds Attending Wolfe Carnival Boxing Kangaroo Is Making A Big Hit

The T. A. Wolfe Shows went right ahead yesterday afternoon despite the rain. Their big waterproof tents proved their value in every way. A very satisfactory attendance was recorded. It was swelled by the children of the County Children's Home. How these children did enjoy the novelties, the performances, and the rides. Through the kindness of the Street Railway Company, they were transported to and from the show grounds in Millbrook Park. The free admission to their afternoon treat came, of course, through the generosity and kindness of T. A. Wolfe, owner of the mighty amusement enterprise bearing his name. He never fails to do for orphan children and the poor, for he himself in childhood experienced the pangs of hunger and want. His shows are constructed on the bedrock principle: "Anything that shocks the mind of a child is wrong guidance and must be eliminated." That's why the T. A. Wolfe Shows are clean, touched with high quality—instinctive, wholesome and big unto premiership.

One bright little kiddie when asked his opinion of the exhibitions, and all he saw, said: "Gee, but its big. I thought we'd never get to the end. It seemed that when we reached the rear of the long stretch of shows and rides we were nearly back to Wheelersburg. I couldn't find Millbrook Park. The T. A. Wolfe Shows have it covered from end to end. I know more since I went. I saw the world, all I learned in books and school, and more. Yes, indeed, the Wolfe shows have what isn't in the books. And the shows don't need a bath—they are clean."

Everybody present entered into the spirit of great joy and went to every show and rode every ride. The same spirit prevailed last night when another large concourse of people greeted Mr. Wolfe, his shows and people. The citizenship now know what the T. A. Wolfe Shows are, and on all sides is heard: "Beyond any doubt the Wolfe shows are among the largest, the cleanest and the best ever in Portsmouth."

Everything worth while to make a mighty amusement unit for outdoor entertainment is garnered under the Wolfe banner. Mr. Wolfe has spared no expense to bring to the people for their enlightenment and amusement every conceivable novelty, stunt and performer.

A queer thing occurred in the Trained Animal Department late last night. The boxing kangaroo and the pugilistic Alredale dog, while in a practice boxing match, brought to light the $100 head purse belonging to Mrs. James C. Clarkson, of near Haverhill. The purse contained about $80 in bills, a $200 check and a diamond ring worth $150. Mrs. Clarkson attended the shows Monday night, and after leaving the show where the kangaroo performed, missed her purse. Search was made but it was not found. E. C. Buchanan, secret service chief for Mr. Wolfe, figured some sneak thief had snatched it, pickpocket fashion.

The kangaroo and Alredale in boxing yesterday got into an infighting mixup when the Alredale put over a straight right to the midsection. The kangaroo winced and went down and out.

As he reeled over from the kangaroo's punch rolled the purse. Examination showed the contents intact. All was returned to Mrs. Clarkson, and she was overjoyed. Now she wants to buy the kangaroo.

and this they cannot get from a chiropractor licensed by and under the dictation of the State Medical Board.

Letters From Our Readers

Editor of The Times: Numerous persons have asked "Why don't the chiropractors apply for a license under the State Medical Board. They have said in published resolutions "That Chiropractic is based on no known facts, but on a fanciful dogma and that is easily proven false and is a menace to public health" and that they are back of any movement that will eliminate Chiropractic. The law gives the State Medical Board the right "to establish rules and regulations governing Chiropractic and this gives them the authority to dictate to the Chiropractor just what cases may be adjusted and if the Chiropractor takes any other his license may be revoked. This makes the science worthless to suffering humanity, especially in cases where it is of most value and had all Chiropractors in Portsmouth been licensed and under control of the State Medical Board little Virginia Carr never would have received the blessings of Chiropractic because her case would have been barred under the "rules and regulations." The public is the party that needs the benefits and blessings that Chiropractic alone can bestow

REDS AGAIN IN WINNING FORM; TROUNCE CARDINALS, 7 TO 4

CINCINNATI, O., July 25.—Cincinnati won the last game of the St. Louis series 7-4 Tuesday by hitting Donk freely in the early rounds and flushing strong off Stuart in the last two innings. Benton pitched effectively except in two-innings. Caveney had a perfect day at bat with four straight hits and Hargrave hit his ninth home run of the season off Stuart in the eighth inning, the ball hitting in the extreme left field corner and bounding over the fence. The game was played:

First Inning—And to think this happened with two out! Flack bounced to Fonseca and Blakes fouled to Daubert. Then Hornsby smote a single to center; Bottomley biffed into left; Stock walked and with the bases denied populated, Myers hit over Boone's head, scoring Hornsby and Bottomley. Almsmith kindly permitted Benton to toss him out. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Burns walked. Big hand for Daubert and a roller to Hornsby. Boone popped to Flack. Roush got a freak hit. Bottomley fell on his face in the mud as Hornsby got the ball and there was nobody for Roush to throw to. This hilarious event was a blessing for Daubert singled to center, scoring Burns and taking Roush to third. The double steal failed, Roush being nailed, Almsmith to Bottomley, one run, two hits, no errors.

Second Inning—Lavan lifted to Duncan. Caveney's pop beat Donk. Flack singled to center. Blakes walked. Flack was caught stealing, Hargrave to Boone. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Lavan fumbled Fonseca's bounce. Hargrave hit into a double play, Lavan to Hornsby to Bottomley. Caveney singled to left. Caveney stole second. Benton bounced to Donk. No runs, one hit, no error.

Third Inning—Hornsby singled to center. Bottomley hit into a double play, Fonseca to Caveney to Daubert. Fonseca threw out Stock. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Burns walked. Daubert forced Burns, Lavan to Hornsby. Boone singled to right, Daubert taking third. Boone and Hargrave, without a chance to score, were nailed, Myers to Almsmith. Fonseca bounced to Stock. One run, two hits, no errors.

Caveney threw out Myers. Boone did the same for Almsmith and Caveney's loss beat Lavan. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Hargrave soared to Myers. Caveney singled to left. Everybody gathered around Benton's pop, but nobody thought to catch it, and it went for a single. Burns singled to right, Caveney scoring and Benton taking third. Daubert forced Burns, Hornsby to Lavan—a wonderful stop, but Benton scored. Jake stole second.

Fourth Inning—Hornsby looped to Roush and so did Bottomley. Stock singled to left and Myers singled to center, but Almsmith rolled to Fonseca. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Hargrave out, Bottomley to Stuart. Caveney singled to left. Benton sacrificed, Stuart to Bottomley. Stuart was taken out and Sherdel went in. Caveney went to third and Burns to second on a wild throw. Daubert popped out. Caveney scored on an error. Boone grounded out. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Ninth Inning—St. Louis failed to score. The box score:

ST. LOUIS	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Flack rf	4	0	1	1	0	0
Blakes lf	4	0	0	2	0	0
Hornsby 2b	5	1	3	2	0	0

DIVIDE BILL
ST. LOUIS, July 25.—Cleveland and St. Louis divided a double header which was featured by home runs here Tuesday. The Browns won the first contest 3 to 1 and the Indians annexed the second, 3 to 2 in thirteen innings.

In the first game, McManus' home run, after Williams had singled in the eighth inning decided the issue. Brower scored Cleveland's run when he hit for the circuit in the seventh inning. Tobin tied the score when he duplicated the feat in the Browns' half.

Jameson's four base hit in the 13th inning won the second contest for the Indians. Myatt and Tobin also cracked out homers during the contest, which was a pitching duel between Edwards and Kelp. Score—First Game:

SHETON RESIGNS
The Huntington Herald-Examiner says: When Marshall College prepares to launch its fall football campaign next September the fans will see a new boss directing activities in the Big Green pig skin camp. This is the essence of a statement issued by the Marshall authorities last night when they confirmed the rumor that Kemp Shelton had resigned the athletic mentorship and that Harrison R. Briggs, 1923 baseball manager, had been assigned to his post. The news of Briggs' appointment is the first official report concerning the coaching situation that has been forthcoming from the local school and it has greatly relieved the suspense of the local fans.

This night picture, taken at the Yankee Stadium, New York, shows Lew Tendler, Philadelphia challenger, making his last stand in an unsuccessful effort to win the lightweight championship from Benny Leonard as 75,000 persons looked on, July 23. The camera, under the night handicap, caught them a few moments before the end of the fifteenth round, when Tendler staggered into a clinch and hung on, almost out.
